

CURIOUS KIT

by Abraham Hunter

I have gravitated toward tiny adorable fuzzballs ever since I was a young child, and I am sure it shows in my paintings. This is one of my favorites because it captures the personality and inquisitiveness that baby animals are blessed with. This little guy is a red fox which is indigenous to the Smoky Mountain area, and he would normally be rolling around with his siblings getting into mischief. In this rare still moment, this cute little kit has spotted you and is curious to see if you are his new friend!
