MYSTIC FALLS II

by Mark Keathley

I must confess - when I step onto the moss-covered rocks and paths of the Smoky Mountains, I'm constantly on the lookout for something interesting. Usually, what stirs me the most is the way the light bathes a scene - scattered through myriad leaves, and occasionally dappling on the bank of a stream, or foliage. Finding a scene like my Autumn version of Mystic Falls - just simply never happens! When have you ever seen a deer pose so perfectly in the right spot! Never! But through the magic of art, the perfect setting can be a reality - Enjoy the moment in Mystic Falls II.Smoky Mountains on one of those trails to see wonders like this, don't let the foot paths and stepping stones lull you into complacency where you miss the chance to really be there and explore the mysteries of life. Make it an opportunity to really find the magic.
