

SECOND CHANCE

by Abraham Hunter

Nov 2018

I titled the painting A Second Chance. We all have shipwrecks in our lives. Even the apostle Paul spoke of his shipwreck and used it as an example in his epistles. Following the Light can be hard. Storms arise that test our focus and faith and can cause us to crash. In the left bottom corner of the painting, you can see your footprints leaving the wreckage. You've survived, and you have a second chance to brave the oceans roar like the vessel you see on the horizon. We all fail at something in life, but thankfully we have a loving and forgiving Father, shining His light through the clouds. His grace gives us the power to let go of the past wreck, walk away from it, and try again! You've been given A Second Chance!
