

GREAT SMOKY MOUNTAIN RAILROAD

by Mark Keathley

Trains are a great way to get to see the countryside! Train tracks go where no one else can go - as they travel down corridors and passages created just for them, where no car can go and few people have ever seen. I love the experience of train travel having ridden on the famous Durango - Silverton narrow gauge railroad. Here in this fanciful depiction of this narrow-gauge train, we are topping over the grand overlook where no train has gone before - except in our imaginations. Imagine as the train tops the overlook seeing the beauty of the Great Smoky Mountains for miles and miles.
