I've begun a new habit of sketching in a sketchbook each day. I draw whatever is on my heart or in my head. My go-to subject lately has been chickadees! It's always so much fun to put out seed and watch them flutter around. So it's no wonder they often find their way into my art. This piece I started working on to just kill time for fun and then it evolved into a fully finished painting! This pair of chickadees have found a wonderful home in the country where they can spend time together, raise their babies, and enjoy each day amongst the wildflowers! That sounds like a loving home!
